Defendant.)

* has moved for a Temporary Mutual Restraining Order in this matter. It is the practice of this Court to enter a Temporary Restraining Order when it applies to both parties even-handedly and serves to address important issues such as in this action. This form of order is commonly put in place upon either parties' request under circumstances such as these.

IT IS ORDERED that each and both of the above-named parties are enjoined and restrained from:

1. Transferring, encumbering, concealing, selling, or otherwise disposing of any of the property of either of the parties, or any joint or common property of the parties, except in the usual course of business¹, or for the necessities of life², without the written consent of both parties or the permission of the Court. Should any party utilize one, or both, of the two exceptions listed, that party must maintain a strict and full contemporaneous accounting, in writing, of all transactions, with supporting receipts and documentation. Additionally, such party shall immediately notify the other party (or counsel for the other party), in writing, of any such expenditure or transaction over five-hundred dollars ($500.00).

2. Molesting, harassing, disturbing the peace of or committing an assault or battery on the person of the other party or otherwise interfering with the personal liberties of the other party.

¹ That is, when necessary to do so in the usual course of a genuine, established, on-going business.
² That is, to pay for essential necessities of life.

3. Entering upon the property of or the home of the other party without invitation and knowledge of that party.

4. Removing any natural, presumed or adopted child of the parties who resides in the State of Wyoming from the State of Wyoming, without the prior written consent of both parties or permission of the Court.

THESE ORDERS ARE OFFICIAL ORDERS OF THIS COURT. VIOLATION OF ANY OF THESE ORDERS MAY BE PUNISHABLE BY CRIMINAL AND/OR CIVIL CONTEMPT OF COURT. A VIOLATION COULD SUBJECT AN OFFENDER TO PAYMENT OF FINES, IMPRISONMENT, AND OTHER SANCTIONS DEEMED APPROPRIATE BY THE COURT, INCLUDING AN AWARD OF ATTORNEY'S FEES TO THE NON-OFFENDING PARTY. VIOLATION BY ANY PARTY OF THE RESTRAINING ORDERS IS ENFORCEABLE BY ALL REMEDIES PROVIDED BY LAW.

DATED the * day of *, 201_.
